

ILLINOIS LINE LOST ITS CASE

STATE OF ILLINOIS CONTENTION WITH ILLINOIS CENTRAL RAILROAD DECIDED.

MUST PAY BACK TAXES

The Fifteen Millions Claimed Will Oswindle Down to a Single One
But It Will Otherwise Increase Annual Tax.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 28.—The
supreme court today decided the Illinois
Central tax case in favor of the state,
reversing the judgment of the circuit
court of La Salle county.

Under this the Illinois Central is liable for the payment of back taxes
aggregating nearly fifteen million dollars.

The lower court sustained the railroad's demurrers and dismissed the state's suit. In the original statement of the amount due the state was five millions, but an examination by the
experts increased the amount to fifteen millions.

The court ruled, however, that all
required to pay the state seven per cent gross earnings, but it is alleged
by the state that $214,000,000 of these earnings had been credited to the outside the state and the railroad
claimed it was not liable for a tax in Illinois on the amounts credited to other lines. The case will now be tried on its merits in the lower court.

The court ruled, however, that all
claims on accounts prior to 1905 are outlawed. Under this ruling the fifteen millions claimed dwindles to about one million. From 1905 this court lays down the rule for accounting by which the state, it is estimated,
will receive $2,000,000 annual revenue
from the road, instead of $1,000,000 or less as at present.

Their Opinion.
Chicago, Ill., Oct. 28.—According to Attorney Horton of the Illinois Central, the decision of the supreme court includes the important point
that under statute limitations the state's case on bearing on years prior to 1905 is null. "The state," Horton
said, "may now sue for only such taxes
as it claims accrued between 1905
and 1907."

the judgment of the circuit court of Cook county in the appeal for a new trial of former Police Inspector Mc-Cann of Chicago.

TRACTION CO. TO SPEND $60,000

On Local Improvements Within the Next Two Years—Plans For
New Car Barns in Han-cove.

Articles of organization of the Janesville Traction Co. were today
filed with the register of deeds, and
the first annual meeting and election
of officers will take place next week.
The statement of interest is not only
broad enough to cover the taking over
of the local street car line but also provides that the company may extend its tracks to neighboring towns;
carry mail and freight; and manufacture, store, and sell electricity.
There is, however, no hidden purpose
of building an Interurban line or power plant, according to Attorney The-
os. S. Nolan who was one of the incorporators. All modern street railway incorporations cover practically the same ground, anticipating any and all
emergencies and contingencies which may arise.

Within the next two years the Janesville Traction Co. will expend $60,000 on extensions and improvements. Plans and specifications for new car barns have been submitted
to local contractors but the contract
has not yet been let. This building
may cost in the neighborhood of $10-000. The overhead equipment on the Janesville line is now first class and
the substitution of heavy rails on all
balance of the new cars at an early date will put the system in excellent shape for improved service. It is possible that a twenty minute schedule will be inaugurated and other changes made.

Nothing definite could be learned
regarding the extension. It is rumored, however, that one of them which has been practically settled upon
will run through the Fourth ward in the direction of the Third Institute.

Connelman, wealthy clubman and

where he has spent the past three

ing his stay in jail he has been employed as assistant nurse. The work,
however, has not been altogether to
his liking and he is joyfully anticipating his release tomorrow, when he

ORINOCO CASE UP FOR ARBITRATION

American Steamship Company Claims
$1,400,000 From the Government of Venezuela.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
The Hague, Oct. 28.—Following the preliminary exchange of briefs last
month the international court of arbitration met today to begin the hearing of arguments in the Orinoco claims
case in dispute between the United States and Venezuela. The claim is that of the Orinoco Steamship Co.,
an American government for more
than $1,400,000 for the alleged arbitrary destruction of certain exclusive privileges by the government of former President Castro. The claim
was originally submitted to the Arbitration-Venezuelan mixed commission
in 1903, which tribunal awarded the company about $28,000 damages. The question for the international court to decide is whether the award of the mixed commission is valid, and if not
to decide what sum the claimants are entitled to.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 28.—A hearing to determine whether Benjamin Scheffels, Milwaukee manager for the stock brokerage of B. H. Scheffels &
Co., should be extradited to New York

fore United States Commissioner Redwood in this city. The home office in New York and all the branch
offices of the Scheffels concern in the country were recently raided simultaneously by government officers on the allegation of the government that
the firm has been operating what is practically a gigantic chain of bucket shops. Benjamin Scheffels is seeking extradition on the ground that the government has no right to take him
to New York for trial when no applicable offenses have been alleged against him.

IOWA CAMPAIGN NEARING CLOSE

IS BEING CONDUCTED WITH VIG-OR BY BOTH PARTIES.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Claude Porter, Democratic Candidate
for Governor, has had the Oratorical Support of Bryan.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 28.—Only ten
more days and the political campaign
which has kept things in a state of turmoil in this state will come to an end, to culminate in the election on November 8, which will displace all
mist and bring clearness in the political situation. Both the leading parties will continue their campaign work
energetically to the closing moments
and the presence of ex-President Roosevelt, who is expected here next week to deliver several addresses in
the interest of some of the congressional candidates of the Republican side, is expected to arouse more than ordinary interest in the closing scenes
of this important campaign.

The gubernatorial campaign has been conducted with considerable
vigor on the part of the Democratic candidate, Claude R. Porter, who has been touring the state for nearly a month and has had the oratorical support of William Jennings Bryan, who delivered addresses in his interest in several localities. Governor B. F.
Carr, candidate for re-election on the Republican ticket, has given comparatively little time to active campaign work. He seems to be confident of re-election and the Republican leaders, believing that the Democratic candidate has practically no
prospect of winning in the contest,
have concentrated their efforts mainly upon the congressional campaign
in the districts in which the critical situation seemed to demand special
efforts in behalf of the Republican congressional candidates.

The Republicans base their confidence principally upon the "Millet Law" issue. This law, which operates as a bar against prosecution under the prohibition law which is still
in about sixty counties, is exceedingly unpopular with the Democrats, who have gone on record as opposing it
and pledged themselves to abolish it.
In its place they propose to adopt a
law which would give the saloon access to cities of every size, where a majority of the community should
vote, by secret ballot, for the admission of the saloon. It is estimated that this system would restore the saloon to hundreds of towns from
which it has been excluded since 1894.
The Republicans, who endorse the present "Millet Law," are of opinion
that this issue will induce thousands
of Democratic voters who are opposed to the saloon, to support the Republican candidate, thus insuring his election.

As to the situation in the various congressional districts, it may be said that in most of them it is rather doubtful. In the first district the fight is quite close, but the Republicans are confident that Congressman
C. A. Kennedy will be re-elected over
J. A. B. Pollard, the Democratic candidate, and the Democrats do not insist upon denying this claim.

In the second district, heretofore
represented by a Democrat, Chas.
Griff, the Republican candidate has been making a vigorous fight and it is expected by the Republican side
that Col. Roosevelt's assistance
next week will turn the tide in favor of Mr. Griff, who is classed among the progressives. The Democratic candidate, I. S. Pepper, is said to be handicapped by the fact that he is a
protégé of former Congressman Wade,
who was responsible for the Democratic liquor resolution.

The sixth district was always rather close and Congressman N. E.
Kendall, the Republican incumbent,
is believed to be in danger of being
defeated by Dan Hamilton, the Democratic candidate. The Democrats
claim that the Republican stand-pat-
ters will kille Congressman Kendall
because he voted against the tariff
bill.

In the seventh district the re-election of Congressman S. P. Prouty is claimed by the Republicans and practically conceded by the Democrats.
The Republican majority in that district is too large to be seriously affected by the defection of even a considerable number of stand-pat-ters. In the eighth district, which is now represented by W. D. Jamieson, a Democrat, the result is still considered
doubtful, but the Republicans are confident that their candidate, Judge
H. M. Towner, will defeat the Democratic candidate, Frank G. Stuart,
as he will probably receive the full Republican vote being considered
free from any suspicion of being in
any way connected with the odious
Hepburn machine.

In the other districts the Republicans seem to have little fear and they are confident that Congressman Pickens in the third, Laughlin in the fourth, Good in the fifth, Smith in the sixth, Woods in the tenth and Hubbard in the eleventh will be re-
elected by a comfortable margin.

STRANGE PROCEDURE TO SAY THE LEAST

Some Explanation Seems to Be Due From Beloit Officers for Sending Varioloid Patient Here.

If Allen Horn of Beloit, age 25, the colored man who was taken from the county farm to the detention hospital at the direction of Dr. Nuzum yesterday is in the last stages of varioloid, as Dr. Nuzum and Pembler and Dr. J. H. Richards, the Janesville health officer, say he is, then it is up to the Beloit health officer, Dr. M. G. Spaw, and the Beloit post commissioner, George Seegmiller, to explain how the man came to be sent here on the interurban car which reached the Bower City just before four o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Horn was represented as suffering with blood poisoning supposed to have been contracted while acting as general utility man in a private hospital in the City. Even if that supposition had been correct, it was morally "up to" the Beloit private hospital to look after him—not saddle him off on the county. But Horn claims that he had been afflicted with the same disorder from which he is now recovering for several weeks. If it is varioloid, how came it to be diagnosed as blood poisoning? Varioloid is no more nor less than smallpox modified by a previous inoculation or vaccination.

Supl. Barlow took no chances and had the man isolated upon his arrival at the county hospital, so none of the patients there were exposed. But the passengers on that interurban car and other people were subjected to the danger of contracting the disease.

Mrs. John Payne, matron of the detention hospital, had not been notified when the patient was brought there yesterday afternoon and would not receive him without directions from the health officer. This necessitated a delay of a half hour, during which time Horn sat in the vehicle. The driver unhitched his horse and left the back and his passenger standing on the premises. Alighting, a fire was built in the hospital portion of the building which has not had an occupant heretofore this season and all was in readiness when Dr. Richards reached the scene and authorized his admittance.

Good Joke on a Clinton Banker

The Wisconsin Banker has the following joke in a recent issue on a man well known to Janesville people: "Deacon" Moshlenpach, otherwise known as Mr. H. A. Moshlenpach, of Clinton fame, insisted upon having a compartment for the western journey of the Wisconsin bankers to the Los Angeles convention, and at present would not change his decision.

There was much conjecture as to why the "Deacon" should want to thus exclude himself and his wife from the rest of the crowd and he had partially satisfied this curiosity by claiming that his wife was a poor traveler and subject to car-sickness.

This excuse went until they were all together in the special when Mrs. Moshlenpach let the cat out of the bag. This explains it—the "Deacon" walks in his sleep.

On one of their trips, so says his better half, she missed him one night and heard some one going along the car aisle saying, "Allen, is this you?" as he poked his head into every berth. She finally recalled him from what was fast becoming a rather alarming condition of affairs by calling the porter to "put that man in No. 3."

No wonder she wanted him under lock and key with the Milwaukee delegation and a bride.

WAS ON THE SAME TRAIN THAT LA FOLLETTE RETURNED TO HIS HOME FROM HOSPITAL

Mrs. Edward Clifford, wife of Conductor Ed. Clifford of the Northwestern road, who has returned from Huron, South Dakota, was a passenger on the train on which Senator La Follette returned from the hospital at Rochester, Minn., to Madison and travelled in the chair car in which the senator and his wife were riding. The senator lay back in one of the chairs with a pillow under his head, but at each station in Wisconsin where the train stopped people thronged into the car, and employees of the railroad were prominent among those who came to shake hands with the senator and speak a word with him.

Favored Age.

When the teacher looked severely at Isadora Levinsky, all ideas fled from him. When asked to name the presidents, he could think of just five—with four long gaps between them. "I am surprised, Isadora," said the teacher, who had left middle age well in the background. "When I was 11 years old, more than a year younger than you are now, I could recite the list of presidents without a single mistake or a moment's hesitation."

"Teacher, yes, my'am," said Isadora, humbly; then a brilliant and comforting idea came to him. "But there couldn't have been half as many presidents to remember then, was there, teacher?"—Youth's Companion.

DAILY DIET HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist.

AS TO TABLES OF FOOD VALUES.

Chemical analysis is not a complete guide to food values. There is an important factor in physiological digestion which does not appear in chemical digestion in the laboratory. The digestion of albumen of egg or meat without cooking gives radically different results in the stomach and duodenum from those obtained in the test tube with chemicals, although certain chemical facts are demonstrable by experiment in the laboratory. But the tables of food values alone do not determine food values. Iron and sulphur are essential to nutrition, but iron filings and flowers of sulphur are not food. The mineral elements in food must be in organic, not inorganic, form, to be assimilated, and high temperature precipitates the mineral parts of vegetables so that they are not assimilable.

CHINA GETS A BIG LOAN

AGREEMENT SIGNED WHEREBY
NEW YORKERS FINANCE EM-PIRE'S REFORM PROGRAM.

SUM IS $50,000,000 GOLD

While Positive Confirmation Is Lacking, Everything Points to the Consummation of the Deal—Bonds to Bear Five Per Cent.

Peking, Oct. 25.—An American group of financiers has practically consummated the $50,000,000 gold loan to the Chinese government.

The negotiations have been conducted between Duke Tsai Tso, president of the board of finance, and M. Morgan, the representative of the International Banking company. Naturally much secrecy has been maintained. Duke Tsai Tso, it is understood, received the agreement's approval. The preliminary agreement was signed last night. The bonds are to bear five per cent, and the rate of issue probably will be 95.

China will use the proceeds of the loan in perfecting currency reform and promoting industrial developments.

Morgan is interested.

New York, Oct. 25.—That the negotiations for the new $50,000,000 loan mentioned in the cable dispatch from Peking have been conducted in behalf of the American syndicate formed about a year ago, consisting of J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the National City bank and the First National bank, was not denied by members of the syndicate, to whom the contents of the cable were communicated. While positive confirmation was lacking, the replies of the syndicate, none of the representatives of whom would allow himself to be quoted, indicated thorough familiarity with the transaction, and it was apparent that the syndicate members feel considerable satisfaction over the successful outcome of the negotiations.

RAIL LAWYERS END CONFERENCE

Constitutionality of New Rate Law Is Referred to Committee.

New York, Oct. 25.—The railroad lawyers who have been in session at the Waldorf Astoria adjourned after voting that a committee of seven from their number be appointed to make a closer investigation as to the constitutionality of the new interstate commerce court.

The convention of lawyers did not name the seven who will comprise the committee which is to look into the constitutionality of the new court. The appointment of the seven was left to Col. H. L. Stone, the chairman, who lives in Louisville and is general counsel for the Louisville & Nashville railroad. He will appoint the committee men within a month or so.

"That committee will decide whether or not a test case will be brought to settle the commerce court's scope and jurisdiction," said Colonel Stone.

He said that the railroad lawyers did not purpose holding any future meetings, but that the committee of seven would be in touch with the rest of the members.

AMERICAN HEROES.

American heroes have usually found it necessary to die to long maintain their standing on the pedestal of fame, and many people are wondering just now how long Colonel Roosevelt, the latest hero, will be able to keep in the limelight at the head of the procession.

The state of New York, which has long been his home, is of divided opinion, and the campaign now being waged is destitute of significance because of its personality in character.

These conditions are not surprising in the Empire State, where the Colonel's activities have been most pronounced, but now comes a complaint from the old state of Massachusetts, expressed editorially through the Boston News Bureau.

The contest in this old republican state is between Governor Draper, the present incumbent, a most excellent official, and Eugene S. Foss, the democratic candidate. When Mr. Foss was nominated the republican leaders regarded it as a joke, for as the article says,

"No one could ask for a better man in the State House than Gov. Draper, but he and his excellent record appear not to be in the campaign."

"It is generally recognized in the Street" that the most serious blunder of the republican campaign was the importation of Theodore Roosevelt to tell the citizens of Massachusetts that his leading individual manufacturer, who was pleading for Canadian reciprocity and really represented the reactionary principles which Roosevelt was supposed to stand for, was after all, only a speculator with more money than he was entitled to and who had no standing because of his wealth.

"The only thing Mr. Foss needed for his election was republican votes. The one way to get republican votes the present season was to set up Mr. Roosevelt in Massachusetts as the dictator concerning wealth and its acquisition."

"If there is one man in the United States that does not understand finance, the accumulation of money or business—outside of politics—it is our distinguished ex-President. In the White House he always admitted that money and finance had never been part of his education."

"Not only Mr. Roosevelt's friends, but Mr. Roosevelt himself, is now awakening to the situation. The decline in Roosevelt's popularity is exactly what he predicted, but it has come more suddenly and more precipitately than even he himself believed possible.

"In a play now running, someone casts a sling at T. R., and the comedian deals forth the rebuke, 'Don't speak ill of the dead,' and the house roars with laughter."

"Mr. Roosevelt has only himself to thank for the situation in which he finds himself. Had he on his return from Africa endorsed Taft's administration and the republican party and rallied the constructive forces around him, he would have been for a long while in public favor. But from the time he touched Egypt, Rome and London he has wanted to dominate everything between, and instead of argument it has been denunciation of everybody who disagreed with him."

"But the little Gollath stone from the sling of Mrs. Delany Storer struck full and hard on the forehead of T. R. Then the unpaid bills for his travelling expenses over 180,000 miles of American railroad, and sundry other things connected therewith which were never published but are speaking, have aroused American sentiment as to the integrity of his position. The last straw was his ignoring President Taft and his very creditable administration of public affairs."

"The place for Mr. Roosevelt in Massachusetts was to have come here endorsing the republican party and its head, President Taft. But to come here and swing the big stick in local politics, depending upon his own personality—well, that was worth about 15,000 votes for Mr. Foss."

"To permit Mr. Roosevelt, who is on the road to defeat in New York, to come here and inject his personality into this state campaign was an error; to post him up to talk scandalously, and make Mr. Foss the issue was a blunder."

"The issue that may defeat the republican party this year is an absolutely false one. It is the high cost of living or the cost of high living, with which the republican party has little to do. But the plain people, who lead the cost of living rising faster than their wages, have no other argument than to vote 'agin the government."

"John Bright used to say that the failure of the wheat crop in England meant a new party in power. It has been this from the beginning."

"The Josephs that have been able to save the Pharisees in famine have been rare."

This criticism is from a New England standpoint, but it is significant nevertheless, as the fact is generally recognized by all thinking people that Colonel Roosevelt is responsible in large degree for the wide breach in the ranks of the party which has so long honored him."

His personal following carried with it the balance of power, and this large constituency would have remained loyal to the President had the leader set the pace, but he failed in his opportunity and demoralization followed. If he goes down with his party to defeat it will not be surprising."

"BUSINESS FOLLOWS THE RAILS."

It is customary to reserve eulogies and benedictions for the dead, but every now and then someone with a sense of appreciation pays a tribute to the living. The remarkable career of Marvin Hughtt, who recently retired from the presidency of the Chicago & North-Western road, prompted "Holladay" in his daily letter to the Wall Street Journal, to pay a tribute to this pioneer railroad builder, while he is still living.

"When Mr. Hughtt started out from the terminal of the Chicago & North-Western, near the Mississippi valley, and extended the railroad for hundreds of miles over a country where there was no living thing excepting wild animals and serpents, with an occasional Indian, finding the terminal at St. Pierre, railway men of lesser business statesmanship could not understand what he had in mind. Where was the business? Where was the income to come from to pay operating expenses, to say nothing of earning dividends? But Mr. Hughtt told them that business followed the rails, and he predicted that within five years, ten at the most, there would be business enough for this new railroad. Within two years he was sending out of Chicago every day on an average of two hundred emigrant families, who speedily populated that fertile region, and confirmed thereby his prediction that business would follow the rails."

This was back in the early 80's when from Tracy, Minnesota, west through the territory of Dakota to the Missouri river scarcely a habitation was to be found. And yet, with sublime faith in the future, Mr. Hughtt's company was laying track across the barren prairie at the rate of a mile a day.

Thousands of families followed in the wake, and then the drought came on and drove them back, so that the railroad for ten years was a losing proposition, but, time realized the hopes of the promoters, and today South Dakota is a garden spot. The country is indebted to Marvin Hughtt, and men of his class, for much of the progress and development of the past twenty years. The railroads are not all bad, however much they may be denounced by the agitator and mischief-maker.

A Kansas farmer bought a lumber wagon for $50, in 1894, paying for it with 600 bushels of corn. He went to the same dealer for another wagon the other day, and objected to the price, $75. The dealer said: "Bring in 600 bushels of corn, as you did in 1894, and I'll give you the wagon and a survey, a two-hundred-acre, a kitchen range and an outfit of kitchen furniture. That's the difference between the corn and the wagon. Yes, wagon is up a trifle."

The feeling of uncertainty, which just now possesses the business world, because of political agitation, will come to a climax in about ten days, but whether conditions will improve after that date remains to be seen. Democratic victory in November would doubtless have a quieting influence on radicalism, but the prospect of a national victory for the same party in 1912 might be equally disturbing.

The garment workers' strike in Chicago goes merrily on in spite of the fact that a long, cold winter is just ahead. Recognition of the union seems to be the principle demand.

Mr. Reynolds, the Chicago banker, favors the central bank, and his judgment will doubtless influence many other bankers.

Sleeping Over a Volcano.

Nature makes many successful experiments in having old dogs, lions, tigers and men go without teeth. As a matter of fact, beauty is the main use of teeth in civilized man. People with bad teeth, no matter how wealthy they are, are sweetly sleeping over a volcano that may blow them into eternity any minute. Say along comes a fierce epidemic of gripe, the bad mouth sets up and swells up the whole face and head and throat and lungs, then septic lung fever, pneumonia and death. And there is the eternal danger of cancer from rotten teeth. No teeth are better than bad ones that can't be saved. Crown teeth are all to the good if done right. Millions of crowns in people's mouths today without any silver gums or gum boils or abscesses or swollen head and face.

Vendace of Lochmaben.

Last month an interesting old custom was observed at Lochmaben, in Dumfriesshire, when the towns people exercised an ancient right granted by charter of James VI. of netting the lochs surrounding the burgh for vendace, a very rare fish. The fishing, however, did not prove productive, very few vendaces being captured, though in former years they were plentiful. This fish, which is peculiar to the Lochmaben lochs alone, takes no lure, and dies immediately when taken from the water. Its length varies from six to eight inches, and it is greatly prized by epicures, being a fish of great delicacy.—Court Journal.

Uncle Walt
THE POET PHILOSOPHER
By WALT MASON.
(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams.)

I liked to watch the good old clock that hung upon the wall. I really think a man might walk from Cleveland to St. Paul, and not behold a smoother piece of skillful craftsmanship; the wheels went round as slick as grease, and never made a squeak. I dearly loved for hours to stand and watch the pendulum; and note the motion, minute hand, and hear the fly-wheel hum. I liked to hear the blundering thing strike—but on one fateful day, the bees remarked: "You'd better like—you are not worth your money. You're paid to help to sell my stock, and do some other chores, but all the day you watch the clock, as if it were your own. And then you push me with this foot, and fanned me with a chair, and when I landed in the street my shoes were in the air. O, clocks are fascinating things, and they have lovely works, and pendulums and hands and springs, but they are bad for clerks, who yield to their seductive charm, and watch the hands go round, and listen to the alarm, and hear the striker pound."

Real Courtesy.
"Say," said our Country Cousin, "you was wrong when you said that Mr. Jones wouldn't have time to talk to me. Why, he hadn't read that letter of introduction you gave me half through before he told me to call again. Yes, sir, he seemed to want me to come and see him real often. While I was explainin' who I was, he invited me to call again at least six times. And I'll bet I wasn't there more'n an hour!"

The Modern Youngster.
Johnny's father took him to the office, and there the youngster saw the stenographer come in late and take the cover of her typewriter. "Look at that!" exclaimed Johnny. "She fired the garage right off the machine."

Their Task.

In a sketch about Joseph Pels, the English multimillionaire, who makes soap and naphtha and other things, Lincoln Stephens, writing in the American Magazine, relates the following anecdote concerning him: "Once, when Pels had been stating his proposition at length a listener, who was impressed by the genial humor, the profound kindness and the serene wisdom of this little Jew, turned to him quietly and said, 'Pels, the Jews call themselves the chosen people; the world has acknowledged the title, and I, for example, am willing now, in your presence, to admit that they are indeed the chosen. But what are they chosen for?' 'The Jews,' said Pels, with a careless wave of his arm, 'The Jews were chosen to introduce Christianity.'"

Joy of Aspiration.
To be truly happy is a question of how we begin and not of how we end; of what we want and not of what we have. An aspiration is a joy forever, a possession as solid as it is hinged on fate, a fortune which we can never exhaust and which gives us year by year a revenue of pleasurable activity. To have many of these is to be spiritually rich.—Robert Louis Stevenson

SUITS - COATS - MILLINERY

Our New Tailored Suits Closely Adhere to the Fashion Ideals of the American Woman

This fact is reaffirmed in every new addition to our present very extensive displays. We have been unusually happy in bringing to Janesville the clever adaptations that retain all the charm and newness in the season's modes, yet with colorings softened and lines modified to come within the studied requirements of our customers. Some of these Suits are severely plain, featuring the shawl collar, the hip length Coats and plain Skirts, in the modified hobble effects.

In our last shipment we included 60 Sample Suits, that are especially beautiful. Materials are pebbled chevrons, now rough materials and novelty mixtures. Priced $13.75 up to $35.00. Every style and every color is represented, and at the prices you benefit fully a third in the saving.

Special Coat Values, $15

An exceptional line of Coats at $15.00. We have never had better values. All wool chevrons, broadcloths, kerseys and Gold Cloths, in military collar and shawl collar effects, 3/4 fitting, button and braid novelty trimmings, beautiful garments and rare values at $15.00.

BAN ON UNMARRIED WOMEN

Tufts, President Says. Middle-Aged Spinners Should Be Banished as College Teachers.

Medford, Mass.—President Frederick W. Hamilton of Tufts college has come out with the positive assertion that unmarried women teachers should be barred from girls' colleges because their influence is harmful. He says:

"I do not believe that young girls who are just passing into young womanhood are in the proper environment when they are continually brought in to close personal touch with elderly unmarried women."

"The larger proportion of women's colleges are in the hands of woman teachers, however, and the educational atmosphere of the places is feminine, the peculiar type of femininity developed by highly cultured, middle-aged unmarried women. Now, while the type may be very fine individually, it is not the proper one to create the atmosphere for girls at the formative period of their lives."

"Girls just coming into womanhood are receiving their future attitude toward the questions of this time. Their outlook on life, which I believe is the most important part of the college training, should be broad, and it cannot be so unless formed in an environment of breadth."

"In the lower grades of the schools, too, and in preparatory schools the influence of the unmarried, middle-aged woman is counteracted by the dominating influence of the home. I believe that an element of married teachers, widows, who were teachers before marriage, perhaps, would be beneficial. The relationship of these schools and their pupils is different, however, because the pupils live at home. The girls at college live on a purely academic life. They are on their resources and they face problems that are quite new to them. They are to be trained to become competent and important parts of life, we hope. They need a large outlook and a broad viewpoint. The elements which go to give these must be brought into their lives at this psychological time, and all elements that tend toward narrowness should be eliminated."

Thrilling Rescue.

A thrilling rescue on the line at Canby, Northumberland, occurred recently. Quite unconscious, or careless of the approach of a goods train, a child wandered on to the North-Eastern Railway and walked on to the permanent way. The engine driver tried to stop the train before it should reach the little one, but found the weight of the heavily burdened engine too great for anything but a gradual pulling up. It seemed as if the child's fate was sealed, when the fireman, Coombes, rushed along the footplate, climbed onto a buffer of the engine, and swiftly hooked up the child with his legs when the train reached the spot. Taking the child unscathed in his arms, Coombes then climbed back along the footplate to safety.

Selecting Your Agent.

Hale, the Connecticut fruit man, who has made a great fortune in the business, selects one commission house in each large city and sticks to it as long as he gets a square deal. He says it pays to go to the same market year after year, and the great mistake of many fruit growers is in shifting about.

Aeroplane Regulation.

In the very infancy of navigation it was found essential that every ship that sailed the sea should have a home and possess its papers, to prove its identity and ownership. Those vessels that could produce no sea letters or ship's papers were treated as pirates or presumed to be engaged upon no lawful business. That was the first stage in the law of the sea. It stands to reason, and it will involve no hardship to insist, even in the infancy of aerial navigation, that there must be some similar regulation to that in use as to vessels. Each aeroplane must have a domicile or home port; its captain must, when he comes to ground, be able if required to produce his papers. The roving, homeless aeronaut who has no credentials must be viewed as a sort of pirate of the skies.

IT'S NO LONGER ENOUGH

merely to manufacture a good article. In many cases, through imitation and substitution, a manufacturer
has to send a bodyguard along with
his goods until they reach the consumer.

Take the case of RUBEROID
ROOFING, for instance. RUB-EROID ROOFING was put on the market nineteen years ago.
It was the best roofing then and is the best roofing now. RUB-EROID ROOFING to-day has over
three hundred imitators and most of them use the three letters,
"old," at the end of the name of
their imitation brand.

You can't get a better reason for putting Runeson Roofing—made
by The Standard Paint
Co., and with the trademark shown here—on your
roof. Runeson
Roofing must be a good deal more than merely a
good roofing when a
new and unknown company believes that the best way to break into
the roofing business is
to call itself by the name
of its foremost competitor.

Runeson Roofing, made by The Standard Paint Co., costs a little more when you buy it, but a great deal less when you use it, than any other roofing made.

The first cost of roofing means nothing. The ultimate question is,
"How long will it last?"

Another advantage of Runeson Roofing is that it is also made in permanent colors of RED, and GREEN. The reason Ruberoid colors are permanent is that they are not painted on—they are built into
the fabric, and so cannot peel off.

When you go out to buy roofing,
steer a clear course through the
tangle of imitators, and get RUBEROID ROOFING

made by the company who are
giving you this information now—
with the trade-marks shown here,
outside the roll, and stamped on
every seven feet of the roll itself.
Every other competing roofing
was put on the market after RUBEROID ROOFING, and has since trailed it not only in age but
in quality.

BUY RIGHT.

It is a fallacy to believe that advertising will sell anything. The store
to the article advertised must first
attract attention to it.

NEW TIMBERS IN SHIP OF STATE

THREE PROPOSED CONSTITU-TIONAL AMENDMENTS TO BE VOTED ON.

MORE PAY TO LEGISLATORS

Apportionment Change and Internal Improvement Question to Be Decided by Electors at General Election.

While a large majority of the voters
of Rock county are, no doubt, aware that three proposed amendments to the state constitution will be voted
upon at the coming general election,
there may be a number who do not know what is proposed to be done by these amendments. The question to be voted on are as follows:

No. 1—Relating to pay of members
of the legislature.
No. 2—Relating to apportionment.
No. 3—Relating to internal improvements.

Doublets Legislators' Pay.
Amendment No. 1 provides for the amendment of section 21 of article 4,
raising the pay of members of the legislature from $500 to $1,000 per an-
num. The original constitutional provision was for the payment of members of the legislature, senators and assemblymen, at the rate of $250 per day for each day of attendance during
the session and ten cents per mile for every mile he shall travel in going to
and returning from the place of meeting.

That was the provision until 1881
when the constitution was amended
by making the sessions of the legislature biennial instead of annual and
fixing the compensation of members
at $500 for the biennial term with the original provision for mileage. From that time the compensation of members has remained as so fixed.

Time Apportionment.
The purpose of amendment No. 2 is really to provide a way to abandon the
state census and accept the decennial
census of the national government as
the basis of apportionment of members of the legislature. The proposal
now submitted will require an apportionment only once in ten years. The amendment submitted on the ballot is
as follows:

"Section 3. At their first session after each enumeration made by the authority of the United States, the legislature shall apportion and district
new the members of the senate and assembly, according to the number of inhabitants, excluding Indians, not taxed, soldiers, and officers of the United States army and navy."

Internal Improvement.
The third proposition to be submitted
is for the purpose of permitting
the legislature to appropriate money
for certain, specified internal improvements now forbidden by the fundamental law.

The constitution now provides that
the state shall never contract any debt for works of internal improvement or be a party in carrying on such works. The legislature, having in mind the conservation of natural resources, proposed an amendment
which will do away with this obstacle
as it relates at least to the class of
internal improvements or betterment
of forests and water powers. The amendment reads as follows:

"Provided that the state may appropriate money for the purpose of acquiring, preserving, and developing
the water power and the forests of the state; but the state shall not be appropriated money for the purpose of
acquiring, preserving, and developing
the water power and the forests of the state in any one year an amount to exceed one-tenth of one mill of the taxable property of the state as determined by the last preceding state
assessment."

These amendments all are submitted on the big ballot for the November election and must be voted for
separately by "yes" or "no" in squares
printed on the ballot for that purpose.

SPARKS FROM ENGINE

STARTED EXTENSIVE FIRE

Five Acres Were Burned Over, Causing Considerable Damage—Monroe News of Interest.
Monroe, Wis., Oct. 28.—A fire starting from sparks left by a traction engine in the timber on the farm of Alva Downs, north of the city, started, a conflagration that was not subdued
until five acres had been burned over,
and but for the assistance of neighbors
would have caused further damage.
The fire spread to the cornfield and
consumed several shocks before it was checked. The traction engine
was used in sawing up stumps and left the farm at 2 o'clock P. M. The wind fanned the sparks into flames and
the fire was first noticed at 8 o'clock.
The fire fighters worked until two o'clock in the morning, and the country
about was lighted up as bright as day by the flames. The farm was purchased by Mr. Downs of John D.
Eley.

RETURN VISIT OF D'URBANO'S BAND

Gifted Musical Organization Opens
Series of Afternoon and Evening
Concerts at Theatre.

D'Urbano's Italian band opened a
series of eight afternoon and evening
concerts at the Myers theatre yesterday before fair sized audiences at the Myers theatre yesterday and the new feature—a quartette of vocalists
singing selections from the great
operas—met with general and enthusiastic approval. The band's offerings were up to the high standard set on previous visits here and included
selections from Puccini's "Glocon-
da," Verdi, Battista, Hail, and other
famous composers as well as opening
marches by Signor D'Urbano, himself,
which were received with favor. D'Ur-bano interprets and visualizes the music, with his accustomed zeal and fervor and the return visit of his musical organization is a treat which Janesville people ought to appreciate.

BUSY SEASON BEGUN AT SUGAR FACTORY

Are Slicing About Six Hundred Tons
Daily and Have Prospects For Continued Run.

Work at the Rock County Sugar
Beech Factory is now progressing at full swing and the plant and yards present
a very busy appearance. About six hundred tons of beets are sliced every day and the factory is kept going day
and night. It is expected that there will be some fifty thousand tons of beets brought to the local factory this season which will mean a long run.
There are, at present, three hundred men or more employed on the day
and night shifts which makes a day
roll of over six hundred dollars a day,
or nearly four thousand dollars a week.

All but a very few of the employees
have their homes in this city. The sugar exports come from the sugar
centers of Colorado and Michigan. For the heavy work of shoveling the beets
a number of Austrians are employed
and their quarters are provided for
by the company.

Some idea of the magnitude of the local sugar industry may be obtained from the amount of freight which is annually handled for the company.
Besides the fifty thousand tons of
beets which are brought in every year,
eight thousand tons of coal and three thousand tons of lime rock are shipped to the factory. The company manufactures about eleven million pounds
of refined sugar which forms the bulk of their outgoing freight. The character of the sugar which this factory
turns out is exceptionally good, and
it would be hard to find any which can show finer grain or greater whiteness or purity.

The region which supplies the beets for
this institution is a wide one.
They are shipped from points as far west as the Mississippi River and as far east as Lake Michigan. Every part of northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin furnishes its quota of the root for the local beet factory.

SHOWER WAS GIVEN IN HONOR OF BRIDE ELECT

Miss Anna De Laney Was the Guest of Honor at A Pink Buns Shower Last Saturday.

Richmond, Oct. 27.—One of the most pleasant affairs given in Richmond for some time was the pink buns shower given Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Harris for Miss Anna De Laney. Each lady brought her gift wrapped in pink paper. Many different methods of entertaining the company were devised for the afternoon, and an elaborate three-course luncheon was tastefully served on tables, with pink center pieces entwined with sunflowers. Pink cards were furnished the guests to search for the ends, on which were attached miniature bags of rice. The bride-elect found her numerous and beautiful gifts fastened on the end of her string and at the same time received a shower of rice from all the bags. Miss De Laney is one of our most popular young ladies and was married Wednesday to Mr. Malcolme of South Grove. Those who attended were Mesdames H. J. Harris, Keith, Moore, De Laney and Kelmhor.

Y. M. C. A. MEET IN TORONTO

International Convention Opens Most Auspiciously in Canadian City.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 28.—The themes to be discussed at the convention of the Young Men's Christian associations of North America, which opened here this morning with a "quiet hour service," relate directly to the right use of the resources entrusted to the North American associations. That there may be ample time for thorough discussion of fundamental problems and far reaching questions by men of vision and of experience, there are fewer platform speakers and speeches than heretofore. The convention was formally organized this afternoon.

The visitors are being well cared for by the people of Toronto. Representatives of the convention reception committee are on hand to meet delegates, and boy scouts in uniform meet all trains and guide the delegates to Massey hall and places of entertainment.

Japanese Method of Cold Storage.
On a recent visit to the city of Tokyo, on the northwest coast of Japan, I had occasion to observe, what at first thought I imagined was a haystack, but on investigation found to be an immense mound of snow covered with straw, matting. The purpose of this mound was to keep in cold storage, for consumption in summer, fish caught in the wintertime. This is the only method of cold storage employed in the rural districts in the north-west of Japan, where the snowfall is very deep in winter, and these stacks are to be seen in considerable numbers distributed in different parts of the country.—Strand Magazine.

ITALIAN BARON KILLS HIMSELF

"All in Love With Servant Who Proves to Be His Sister."

Rome, Oct. 28.—Neapolitan society has been shocked by the suicide of Baron Mario de Antinelli, son of the court chamberlain of the late King Francis of Naples.

The baron fell in love with his mother's housekeeper, Concetta Muzi, a beautiful woman, and wished to marry her. His mother opposed his wishes and finally revealed to him that Concetta was the illegitimate daughter of his own father by a lady of King Francis' court.

The despairing lover jumped from a window of his own palace.

Paris, Oct. 28.—A young American student of the piano, Lucinda Farrar of New Orleans, committed suicide by gas in her room in the Latin quarter. She had been in bad health and despondent for some time, and had mixed little with the student world.

THE THEATER

Vaudeville Musical Act.

By far the most original and yet enjoyable vaudeville act given in Janesville is the musical sketch of Marquis and Lynn who are appearing nightly the rest of this week at the new vaudeville theatre. Good-sized audiences attended the performances last evening and hearty rounds of applause followed each clever stunt of the actors. The performers play several instruments on the stage, and as a final gave a clever exhibition of violin playing, placing the instruments on their heads, holding it back of them and in other difficult positions and playing without a stop and in perfect time with each other. Their act has been a winner elsewhere and Janesville people are enjoying it as much as those of the larger cities where Marquis and Lynn have appeared. In addition to the vaudeville three good films were shown and there were two illustrated songs.

The Apollo Club.

President Geo. S. Parker of the Apollo Club has had complete charge of the arrangements for the greatest musical treat ever heard in Janesville and has engaged a trio of artists for November first, the formal opening of the season's entertainments of this noted musical organization. In order that the general public may have the opportunity of hearing the artists engaged, the concert will be held in the Myers theatre. Artists from Arturo Thindl, the violinist, the pianist also engaged, is Miss Rita Fornia, the star of the evening.

Rita Fornia is a most prominent member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and she has recently declared by one of its managers to be one of its most valuable members, an evidence being that she has been retained by a contract for a term of years to appear in the important soprano roles. Her voice is a beautiful lyric, she sings with great depth of expression, and possesses an unusually charming stage presence. There are few artists who have so great a repertoire of operas. Although she Moving Pictures of Insects.

A French inventor, Monsieur Dull, has perfected a cinematograph with which pictures of insects in flight may be taken, and after exhibited in motion upon a screen, or a stereoscopic apparatus. As many as 3,000 images per second may be made, but in studying the movement made by the flying insects, as represented by the images, the latter can be caused to pass with relatively great deliberation, so that only 12 or 15, or even only two or three succeed one another per second. By an ingenious device Monsieur Dull causes the insect itself to make an electric contact, and thus set the apparatus in motion at the beginning of its flight.

is one of the youngest singers appearing in important parts, her excellent work has made the name Rita Fornia already well known, and the leading critics unite in the opinion that she will soon be recognized as one of the greatest singers this country has produced, for she is an American having been born in San Francisco.

Two years ago, Miss Fornia was cast for a role in "Il Trovatore." At a quarter past six the same evening, Miss Fornia was to sing, one of the officials of the opera house called up Miss Fornia on the telephone and asked her if she could sing "Leonora." It was a part in which she had never before appeared. She had been studying it, but not yet had a rehearsal. Youth possesses nothing, if not confidence in itself, and Miss Fornia replied that she not only could but would. There was no time to make the usual announcement of the change on the program or on the posters outside, and it was not until the last explanation of unpleasant difficulties came upon the stage to "beg the indulgence" of two audiences, that it was known that there was to be any substitution. The first act was not yet over, as all the critics agreed the next day, before that audience realized that it had no need to exercise this indulgence; that they were having a performance of "Leonora" high-class in every particular; both in acting and in singing.

Miss Fornia was also called upon at the last moment to substitute for Miss, Sembrich in "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" at Philadelphia, when Miss, Sembrich suddenly indisposed and unable to sing her part.

Miss Fornia received her early training in New York and later made her debut in Hamburg. She also studied with Jean De Hoszko, in Paris, and two years ago was engaged to sing at the Metropolitan Opera House. Miss Fornia is still a member of the Metropolitan Opera House, and will give twenty operatic performances there this coming season, and also twenty performances at the Boston Opera House as these two Opera companies are affiliated.

To Business Women.
A recent number of the Commercial Tribune has some sensible remarks on the subject of the business woman's appearance. The personal appearance impresses one with the business faculty of a young woman. "It adds considerably to the business value of a woman, no matter in what humble capacity she may be, to consider personal cleanliness and neatness in dress." Tidy garments, topped by a clean, natural complexion and neatly arranged hair, will aid in securing a position and help to hold it. There is something most businesslike in keeping up one's appearance, whether a woman is employed in an office, a factory or in the kitchen.

RIDERS IN AIR BUCK THEIGALE

HOXSEY TRAVELS 25 MILES AND JOHNSTONE 55 AGAINST STIFF WIND.

BOTH LAND WITHOUT MISHAP

Aviators Are Missing From View
Nearly Two Hours Before Heard
From—Height of 9,000 Feet Is Attained, Unofficial.

New York, Oct. 28.—Again the Wright flyers furnished the sensation of the aviation meet at Belmont park. Hoxsey and Johnstone renewed their altitude duel, rising from the field almost as the bomb burst, announcing the opening of the hourly altitude contest. In three-quarters of an hour they had passed over the woods to the northeast beyond the range of the strongest glasses on the ground, fighting the gale blowing in the upper atmosphere like football players bucking the center.

One hour and forty minutes had they been missing from view before word was received that Hoxsey had landed safe and sound at Brentwood, 26 miles east of the park. It was nearly a half hour later before the welcome news reached the spectators that Johnstone had also landed without mishap at Middle Island, 30 miles further east than Brentwood, whereupon the crowd, the largest by several thousand that has yet graced the tournament, gave a cheer of thanksgiving and relief.

Latham Flights Wind.
But airplanes were not the only machines to match their prowess with the wind. Just as the Wright machines climbed into the air Hubert Latham, in his Antonette, rose from the field and swept into the course as an entrant in the hourly distance contest. No other aeroplane followed his example and he had the center of the stage throughout the performance, with the Wright flyers doing a sort of buck and wing dance off the northeast. He was at it for nearly the entire hour and completed 14 laps, about 21.7 miles, in 55 minutes 24 15-100 seconds, which the experts pronounced remarkable time considering the conditions.

Land Without Incident.
The runway and landing of the flyers was practically without incident. Hoxsey landed in an open field about two miles from Brentwood.

Johnstone landed in a cornfield on the edge of Middle Island, 55 miles from Belmont and six miles from a railroad station. The place where he landed is not more than six times the area of the spread of his craft's wings. Johnstone estimated unofficially that he had ascended probably 9,000 feet, a figure which if sustained would be a new American record.

NEW CUSTOMS' FRAUD FOUND?

Millions Lost in Duties on Lemons, Is the Latest Charge.

New York, Oct. 28.—Another alleged leakage in the customs service, whereby it is estimated that duties ranging into the millions have been diverted from the federal treasury, it became known, is being investigated by William Loeb, Jr., collector of the port. The inquiry deals with rebates allowed importers of fruits on shipments reported as decayed or unfit for market.

Owing to the fact that the number of inspectors was too small to permit a complete examination of all cargoes, an agreement was reached some time ago between importers and the customs officials whereby if an allowance for decay was claimed an inspection of only 5 per cent. of the cargo was made and the percentage of decay found in this portion alone applied to the entire cargo. It is now claimed that frequently the rebates thus allowed were excessive.

'LILY WHITES' WAR ON NEGROES.

Organize in South Carolina to Eliminate Blacks From Party.

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 28.—The "lily white" Republican convention called by John G. Capers, national committeeman from this state, met with delegates from all but nine counties and formed a party organization the prime object of which is to eliminate the negro from the councils of the party. The convention decided not to put out a ticket this year, but to nominate candidates for congress in all seven South Carolina districts in 1912.

AEROPLANE TO CARRY FREIGHT.

Wrights Get First Contract Ever Signed for Shipment of Goods.

Dayton, O., Oct. 28.—The first contract ever made for the transportation of freight by aeroplane was signed here by Roy Knabenshue for the Wrights. A Columbus dry goods concern agreed to pay $5,000 to carry a consignment of silk from Dayton to Columbus next Tuesday when the original package will arrive in this city from abroad. It is understood that the Columbus house has advertised the silk for a sale.

Lower Down on the List.

Having just had her child baptized in church she waited in the vestry till service was over to have the registrar's certificate indorsed in the usual manner. The vicar, not being sure of the date, remarked in an interrogative tone, "This is the twentieth, I think?" "Indeed, no, sir!" replied the worthy matron indignantly, "she's only the sixteenth, the wee lamb."

Heart Not Always on the Sleeve.

A light manner does not necessarily mean a light heart. Nine out of ten jest to cover a sorrow. It is better so, and you may find serious worth under that gayety you fear.

Why Children "Fidget."

Fidgets provoke "wrath" from thoughtless grownups. Often one hears an angry fool shouting: "Why can't you sit still?" but the child can't sit still; nature will not let it, but is stimulating it through its nerves to make it grow. The fidget arises from lack of proper play or employment. Supply this or divert the attention to something interesting and the nerve centers will have work to do, the growing need is satisfied and the fidget stopped.

A Contemporary Opinion of Byron.

These poems ("Hours of Idleness") completely prove, that although George Gordon, Lord Byron, a minor, whose portrait we give, may be a gentleman, an orator, or a statesman, unless he improves wonderfully, he can never be a poet.—From the Saturday, London, 1807.

Margaret Deland and Her Dogs.

Mrs. Deland's fondness for pets extends beyond the vegetable kingdom and includes three bottled sheep dogs. The oldest of these rejects in various appellations. When he is clean and happy she calls him "Ruffus," when he is fighting she calls him "Ruffian," when covered with dust and dried mud he becomes "Rough Scuff;" on ordinary occasions he is merely "Rough." His owner received her first dog of this species—a fine specimen called Bobby—from her brother in Pennsylvania. Upon Bobby's death he was replaced by Rough, who was purchased from the kennels of Mrs. Richard Harding Davis. He has now two play fellows, dubbed Gobble and Della, though the latter also answers to the name of Gilla. It is evident that Margaret Deland writes from experience when, in her charming book of essays, called "The Common Way," she speaks a few words concerning "loving my dog."

The Out-of-Door Life.

The man who lives an out-door life—who sleeps with the stars visible above him—who wins his bodily sustenance at first hand from the earth and waters, is a being who defies rain and sun, has a strange sense of elastic strength, may drink if he likes, and may smoke all day long, and feel none the worse for it. Some such return to the earth for the means of life is what gives vigor and developing power to the colonist of an older race cast on a land like ours. A few generations of men living in such fashion store up a capital of vitality which accounts largely for the prodigious activity displayed by their descendants and made possible only by the sturdy contest with nature which their ancestors have waged. That such a life is still led by multitudes of our countrymen serves to keep up our pristine force and energy.—Dr. S. Weir Mitchell.

Mrs. Madern, who has been stay-

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion and Dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with no common, every-day cure, and have said that they have heart made up to try it, that they have something else wrong, or believe there is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; Instead, it ferments and poisons, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach Distension, which putrefy in the digestive tract and Intestines, and, besides, poison the breath with offensive odors.

It is not a case of indigestion, or dyspepsia, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach, it is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Papp's Diapapain.

Sanitation in the Bathroom

In the bathroom, the closet requires constant attention and frequent, thorough scrubbing. Rinse the toilet and flush freely. Put into the bowl of the closet a handful of Gold Dust washing powder and let the solution stand for some time. Then take an old broom and scrub all the parts that can be reached, especially into the traps as far as possible. Flush again, and add more of the washing powder and wash under the flushing rim and all parts inside and out. Stains of iron from the water if not removed by the scouring, may be removed with a few drops of hydrochloric acid.

AMERICAN WOMAN A JUDGE IN HAWAII.
Mrs. Emma M. Nakulua.

Honolulu, Hawaii.—An American woman, Mrs. Nakulua, has made herself a power in Hawaii. She holds a unique position in the territorial government. She is a water rights commissioner and sits as a judge in decisions where the rights are in litigation, and is considered an able and most just official, her decisions seldom, if ever, being set aside.

Mrs. Emma Metcalf Nakulua, now living at Kalia, is the great-granddaughter of Captain Metcalf, the captain of the Elmore. Her father, who was a graduate of Harvard, was a nephew of the late Chief Justice Metcalf of Massachusetts. On both sides she is descended from high priests, chiefs, statesmen and soldiers.

He swung on one heel and slouched out as Betty turned to go upstairs.

BLINKY LOCKWOOD.

Presently she reappeared, pluming on her and little but, and left the store. It was upward of an hour before she returned, walking quickly and very erect with her head up and shoulders back. Her eyes suspiciously bright. Even old Sam, who had returned from the depot after missing Blinky at the bank—even he, blind as he ordinarily was, saw instantly that something was wrong with the child.

"Why, Betty," he cried in solicitude as she flung into the store—"Betty, dear, what's the matter?"

For an instant she seemed speechless. Then she tore the hat from her head and cast it carelessly upon the counter. "Father," she cried—"father!" and gulped to down her emotion. "Can you get me some money?"

"Money? Why, Betty, what?"

Her foot came down on the floor impatiently. "Can you get me some money?" she repeated in a breath. "Well—er—how much, Betty?" He tried to touch her to take her to his arms, but she moved away, her sorry little figure quivering from head to feet.

"Enough," she said half sobbing.

OWES HER LIFE TO

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I was troubled with falling and indigestion, and the doctor said I could not get well unless I had an operation. I knew I could not stand the strain of one, so I wrote to you sometime ago about my health and you told me what to do. After taking Lydia E. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, cures all nervous or harmful drugs, and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any similar medicine in the country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, indigestion, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every such suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

"But tell me what the matter is, Betty. Wanting a dress would never upset you like this."

She whipped the cracked and crumpled card from her pocket and pushed

see, "I'll try!"

She turned on him, exasperated beyond thought. "That only means you can't help me!"

"Oh, no, it doesn't. I'll do what I can."

"Have you got any money now?" He hung his head to avoid her blazing eyes. "Well, no—not at present, but here's this now stock and—"

"That doesn't mean anything, and you know it. You owe that note to Mr. Lockwood, don't you? And you can't pay it!"

"Not today, Betty, but he'll give me a little more time, I'm sure. He's kind, very kind."

"You don't know him. He's as mean—as mean as dirt—as mean as dirt!"

"Then if you did get any money you'd have to give it to him, wouldn't you?"

"Yes, but I'm sure—I think I'll come all right."

"Ah, what's the use of talkin' that way? What's the use of talkin' at

"HE'LL COME PRETTY DAMN QUICK."

He took her hand. "Look at that!" she bade him and turned away, struggling with all her might to keep back the tears.

Joe Lockwood's face softening. "Joe, look, his old party, eh? And she's sent you an invitation. Well, that was kind of her, very kind."

She swung upon him in a fury. "No, it was not kind. It was meant. It was meant!"

"Oh, Betty," he begged in consternation, "don't say that. I'm sure!"

"Oh, you don't know! I heard the girls talking in the postoffice—Angie Fithill and Mamma Garrison and Bessie Gabriel. I was round by the boxes where they couldn't see me, but I could hear them, and they were laughing because I was invited. They said the reason Josie did it was because she knew I didn't have anything to wear, and she wanted to hear what excuse I'd make for not going. Ah, I heard them!"

"Oh, but Betty, Betty," he pleaded, "don't you mind what they say, don't!"

"But I do mind! I can't help mindin'! They're mean!" She paused, her features hardening. "I'm going to that party," she declared—and I'm going to that party, and—"

He tried to take her hand, but she drew it away. "I don't care what I do—I'm going to have that dress!"

Sam would have soothed her as best he might, but she would neither look at nor come near him.

"Well, see," he said gently. "We'll

Sam had dropped into his chair, unable to stand before this storm; he stared now, mute with amazement, at this child who had so long, so uncomplainingly, shown his poverty and privations, grown suddenly to the stature of a woman—and a tormented, passionate woman, stung to the quick by the injustice of her lot. He put out a hand in a feeble gesture of placation, but she brushed it away as she bent toward him, speaking so quickly that her words stumbled and ran into one another.

"I can't understand it!" she raged. "Why is it that I have to be more shabby than any other girl in town? Why is it that the others have all the fun and I all the drudgery? Why is it that I can't ever go anywhere with the boys and girls and laugh and—"

Sam bent his head to the blast. In his lap his hands worked nervously, but he could not answer her.

"It ain't that I mind the cookin' and doin' the housework and—all the rest—but—why is it you can never give me anything at all? Why must it be that every one looks down on us and sneers and laughs at us? Why is it that half the time we haven't got enough to eat? Other men manage to take care of their families and give their children things to wear. You've got only us two to look after, and you can't even do that. It isn't right, it isn't decent, and if I were, I'd be ashamed of myself!"

Her temper had spent itself, and with this final cry she checked abruptly, with a catch at her breath for shame of what she had let herself say. But, childlike, she was not ready to own her sorrow, and she turned her back, trembling.

SHELTERING MANHOOD

By REV. W. D. BRADFIELD
Pastor Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, Dallas, Texas

Text.—Behold a king shall reign in righteousness and peace in judgment. And a man shall be a hiding place from the wind, a covert from the tempest; as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land.—Isaiah 32:1, 2.

The text is Isaiah's dream of a just government. "A king shall reign in righteousness and peace in judgment." It is remarkable that Isaiah's loftiest conception of the Messianic reign is a just government. A king his Messiah should be who reigns in righteousness. Isaiah's dream is the dream of the ages. History is little more than a record of a struggle for just government. A government allowing equal opportunities for all, giving every man a square deal, has been the desire of all peoples. Men want justice here and now. More than benevolence or charity men demand simple justice.

It is too late now to seek to compensate men for injustice here by the promise of justice after they are dead. Selfless people here are no longer comforted by the promise of mansions in the skies. Hungry people are no longer compensated for hunger here by the promise of eating bread in the kingdom of God. Demand justice here, and the dream of millions of hearts is for the just government which Isaiah foresaw.

The text gives us Isaiah's conception of the fountain force of society: "A man shall be as a hiding place from the wind"—a man. Society is composed of an aggregation of individuals and no scheme for social betterment is worth while which has a goal other than the improvement of the character of individual men. The fountain force of government and society is the individual. "A man shall be as a hiding place from the wind"—a man. The word "man" was not in the vocabulary of the Christ. He did not seek to reach men en masse. He aimed at the personal character of individual men and women.

His ministry was much to individuals, now to a confused seeker by night. The sum total of his three years' work was the training of a half dozen or more individual men. The fountain force of society is the individual man or woman. Discontinue learning, distribute wealth, do what you will, but you have done nothing permanent for society until you have reached the bettered, the personal character of individual men and women. Exactly this is the fountain force of society as Isaiah saw it. "A man shall be"—a man.

"A man shall be as a hiding place from the wind, a covert from the tempest; as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." Isaiah looked east of Palestine and beheld running north and south great cliffs of rock. East of these cliffs he beheld the drifting sands of the Arabian desert. The great cliffs he had seen rise in their majesty and say to the burning, drifting sand: "Thus far and no farther." The drift was arrested and to the leeward of the great rocks he beheld oases blossom as the rose. Here he had seen flocks and herds roam. Then in his vision he said: "The time is coming—the good time is coming—when a man shall repeat the ministry of the rocks. Under his sheltering manhood the weak shall be protected and the fainting inspired. A man shall be as a hiding place from the wind . . . as a shadow of a great rock in a weary land."

It is admitted by all that Isaiah's words are a luminous description of the inspiring and sheltering ministry of Jesus Christ. But they are more than that. They are Isaiah's ideal of what every life may be. "A man"—any man, every man—may repeat the ministry of the sheltering rocks.

Life, it has been said, has aspects very desolate-like. It is swept by drifts, now of cruel government, now of social impurity, now of commercial dishonesty. The arresting force has always been a man. The drift of Persian cruelty and social corruption was arrested by Mohammedan apostleship as represented by Charles Martel at Tours. The drift of medieval ecclesiasticism was arrested by Martin Luther at the Diet of Worms. Great outstanding characters who have repeated the ministry of the rocks which Isaiah saw have made history. The achievements of history are at bottom of the work of these men.

What Jesus Christ did and what the great outstanding characters of history have done you and I are called upon in our lesser spheres to do. The manhood of each is to be a sheltering manhood. The weak are to be protected, the fainting by the shadow of our lives. Only this spirit can solve our problems. Souls must be given to our great corporations and under the shelter of their benevolence the weak are to be protected.

Unselfish service is to be rendered by every employee and under the shelter of his fidelity corporate interests are to be safeguarded. Remember, it is "a man," any man, every man, who is required to repeat the inspiring and sheltering ministry of the great rocks which Isaiah saw.

AIRMEN ARRIVE AT QUEBEC

HAWLEY AND POST REACH CANADIAN CITY IN FAIRLY GOOD SHAPE.

BIG CROWD WELCOMES THEM

Balloonists Tell of Hardships They Endured in Struggles Through Forests and Wilderness—One Was Injured, Making Travel Slow.

Quebec, Ont., Oct. 28.—Alun R. Hawley and Augustus Post, the heroes of the greatest balloon flight on record, arrived here last night after an experience that was more trying than earlier reports indicated, but mightily pleased because the cup for which they contested remains in America.

The United States consul was there to greet them, as well as a number of enthusiastic citizens who cheered them lustily as they stepped to the platform.

Aeronauts Are Fatigued.

Although persons of vigorous health and dauntless spirits, it was easy to perceive that the two aeronauts, about whose safety the people of the entire continent had been held in suspense for several days, were worn out, and although they spoke freely, their bodily fatigue could not be disguised. And at times, as they recounted their thrilling experiences, they would remark that they were somewhat "dazed." The party drove to the Chateau Frontenac, where they dined as the guests of the U. S. consul.

In the Air Forty-Six Hours.

Messrs. Hawley and Post landed about 46 hours after their departure from St. Louis. The balloon basket touched earth at 3:35 the afternoon of Oct. 19. They probably flew about 1,600 miles, although the direct distance between the two points, on which the international race is decided, is only 1,355 miles. This would make their average rate of progress about 35 miles an hour.

The first day after leaving the American U. S. at the end of their journey on the banks of the Peribonka river, Mr. Hawley's leg was injured so badly that he was laid up for several hours and has not yet entirely recovered from the effects of the hurt.

Post Describes Journey.

In describing the earlier part of the journey up to the time they were lost sight of over the state of Michigan, Mr. Post said they followed a north-easterly course across the Mississippi and Missouri rivers and thence along the Illinois river into the state of Wisconsin. The next morning they were just north of the city of Milwaukee, but over the lake. Then varying winds carried them along northeast over Georgian bay to Lake Nipissing, Ont. Mr. Post thus describes the subsequent event: "We could see from the character of the country below us that it would be almost impossible to move afoot, so we decided to go on. We again went into the higher levels, and at one time our barograph registered 5,000 meters, which is the limit. We then saw in the distance what we supposed was the town of Normandville Lake, St. John.

Out in Thunder Storm.

"This was at about 1:30 p. m. on Wednesday. The country looked favorable for a landing and we decided to come down. The speed at which we were going, however, carried us beyond the place we had picked out. We were carried over a small hill. Considering the circumstances, we made a very good landing on what we later learned was to the east of the Peribonka river and near a chain of small lakes.

"A very heavy thunder storm came up and we slept in the basket that night. The next morning we saw that it was impossible to move the balloon and we packed up for the journey on foot. We slept in the woods Thursday night.

"Hawley injured his leg in the afternoon.

Find a Trapper's Cabin.

"On account of Mr. Hawley's injured leg we took it easy Friday and went into camp early. On Saturday, on the shore of a small lake, we came upon the cabin of Jacques Matthews. He was absent at the time, but we enjoyed his hospitality for the night and the whole of the following day. Unfortunately the cabin was bare of supplies.

"About nine o'clock Monday morning Mr. Hawley went to the bank of the lake and shouted 'Hello' several times. The call was answered and a short time later Josef Peneaud and Josef Simon, two trappers, paddled up in a canoe.

"After explaining our situation to them they readily agreed to aid us in reaching the nearest habitation. We went by canoe to Lake Blanche, where we camped Monday night. Our new-found friends caught some trout and we enjoyed the first good meal in a long time. The remainder of our journey to Chicoutimi was comparatively easy."

Believe Balloon Lost.

"It is unlikely the balloon will be recovered," said Mr. Hawley. "However, it is lost in a good cause. We have without doubt beaten the world's record by more than 200 miles."

Or a Strong Face.

Even when a man knows he isn't handsome, he thinks he has a rather intellectual look.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Strenuous Old Lady.

We commend to the attention of those still perturbed by the nicotine practices of women the illustrious example of Mrs. Drake, a lady highly esteemed in Manchester, England, at the beginning of the eighteenth century. She was of the gentilefolk and kept a carriage. To her tea and coffee as beverages were newfangled and nauseous draughts. Her abhorrence of them was well known, and so whenever she made an afternoon visit her friends provided her with those aids to cheerfulness of disposition and fluency of tongue, viz.: a tankard of ale and a pipe of tobacco.—Boston Herald.

A Portrait of Charles Anthon.

His outward personality was unique and impressive. He was a trifle under the average height, erect as an Indian and inclining to portliness. His head was superb and his features strong and finely cut. He was punctiliously neat in his dress, the style of which was never varied. A short sack coat hung straight from his ample shoulders, merging in front into a spotless linen, relieved only by a very small gold pin, the whole surmounted by a black satin stock and a high standing collar with rounded corners.—Columbia Quarterly.
